Ambedkar Philosophy on Education Policy

- Education was an instrument to liberate the dalits from illiteracy, ignorance and superstitions and thus enable them to fight against all forms of injustice, exploitation and oppression.
- Ambedkar stands for the rights of women – Right to Education.
- He was appointed as the first Law Minister of independent India.
- Babasaheb Ambedkar is known as Bhimrao Ramji Ambedkar was a social reformer and inspired the Dalit buddhist Movement in India.
- He also said, "Education is as necessary for females as it is for males."

• Dr. Ambedkar feared the dangerous caste system present in the Hindu community and since he propogated equality for all, he

• "Education is not only the brighthouse of every human being but also a weapon of social change." অক্ষয়
